

ty
 i by
 ctions,
 rthur,
 y of The
 ver (Sir
 's final
 on the ical of
 or the
 ert.
 etDirect.
 IOSPO2BOP)

LOOKING GOOD: Steph Gunn (left), Daya Louis, Acqua Heremia, Sarah-Jane Jensen and Sam Fredheim with some of the products up for grabs at market day on Monday.

PICTURE / KELVIN TEIXEIRA 160910KT5B0P

ation

ATION

re system)
 or the roof
 and then home.

STER

09

Homework done on girly designs

Velvet bows, fluoro scrunchies, lace headbands, decorated clips, stress balls with faces, flax flowers with feathers and iPod covers beautified with ribbon and tied with a star.

A group of Tauranga Girls' College students hope knowing their target market will pay off when they sell products they have created at a school market day on Monday.

The very girly designs have taken hours of manual labour to create and priced from $1 to $4, they hope students will be queuing up with loose change.

Students in three Year 10 enterprise classes have each contributed $10 capital, with the aim of making a profit after paying 10 per cent tax to the school.

The girls are all entering their products in the 2010 BP Innovation Competition.

— — Carly Udy

PROTECT YOUR PORT ASSETS

Re-Elect
John Cronin
 For

